DreamFly: DreamFly is the first VR game to simulate flights in your dreams. Immerse yourself into the atmosphere of traveling through the world of dreams. However, before you start your adventure, you will need to, well, learn how to fly! DreamFly is a simplified version of planes. With no real controls you have to try to use the tools of the game to beat the level, to finish it. The game will be one of the simplest VR games you have played so far, with just one stage and a few minutes gameplay. But it has infinite replayability. Once you have learned how to fly, you can use the shortcuts you master to fly through the levels as if you were just a little bird. DreamFly has also various features not found in other VR games: - thousands of levels - the game has over 4000 levels. - no avatars, no enemies. - simple, easy and intuitive controls. - no surprises: most of the shortcuts are known, the others have not been programmed in the game yet. - no reset button: once you have missed a shortcut, it is not possible to fly back to the beginning. - unlimited gameplay duration and amount of jumps on each level. The world of DreamFly DreamFly is a first person, virtual reality game set in a dream world inspired by movies like Psycho, Blade Runner and The Matrix. In DreamFly you will be able to soar through the sky, dive into the clouds, run and fly freely, glide, and fly through mirrors. The game will place you in a virtual office where you have to find an object in a corrupted version of your office, in order to complete it. Features - Play an infinite number of levels. - Never limit your length of gameplay. - The game is not for hardcore gamers: most of the levels are simple, but you will get hooked. - Endless replayability. - Sandbox gameplay: No artificial intelligence, no enemies, no avatars, no story. The game is set in a dream world with no limits on the time you can spend inside. - Your only limitations are your imagination and stamina. Career customization: The player is able to choose from multiple jobs and modify the design of each; each of the over 200 possible jobs has distinct clothing and bonuses. Puzzles: Fungus-like plants will attack your colleagues if you leave them alone for too long and within this, there are numerous puzzle and brain-teasing mini-games. Character movement: NPCs all move in a very unnatural fashion when walking, even though some of them may have a very loose design to them; whilst the player can follow this movement, NPCs also walk at an unnatural pace. Time management: The player must keep an eye on each of their players, for each day their various players return will have consequences on their own health and the state of the world. Combos and wildcards: If a player manages to put together all of their wildcards during the game then the player will win the game. Psychological crises: The world in Sokpop is in the grips of numerous psychological crises; this is represented by each day the player has lost a percent of their health, the state of the world is represented by multiple megavideos of the world being torn apart, the individual members of their group of friends are represented by several profile cards. The game runs on the Visual Basic.NET Framework, so it should run on any computer with.NET 2.0 installed. My idea for this game is that all people can live together, But some crazy fascist ideology laught their way in the beginning, and people to become a bunch of paranoid hunters and keep it that way. Maybe you can stop some people who wish to have nukes to make them weapons, because that's the worst way to kill them all. To do this, you use up all the resources. Resources could be minerals (Iron, Titanium, etc), water, even nuclear weapons. To capture them, you need to understand people. Who they are, where they're from, what they like, etc. To avoid being blown up, you can build up electric fences, some of which are electrified. To play with them, you should build a bridge. Of course, this gives you some control over them, which makes them really scared. In addition, they'll have to wake up in the morning, and you can attack them during this period to cause a knock-out. When you capture them, you must turn the theme tune over to the public's rhythm.

What's new in Girls Overboard:

Hm, I checked the webtest results, and out of those with > 100 pages, only about half (50%) are showing a 1.2.x warning. So that does make the test fairly unreliable. I have already removed over 200 spiders from the test, as they failed one or more of the criteria. And as for removing the criteria that the webtest checker finds offenders, then that means all 6 criteria for pre-1.2 links are removed. So almost all of these links will be removed. That's a lot of pages that are now competing for links in nytimes.com's pages. That's why I also added to the About section of this blog post: So, in summary, the whole purpose of the Riaaf The Spider, is to warn people if they are linking to a site that has been updated recently to 1.2.x. There was no plan when I started the test, to run it for 10 000 pages. However, when I started doing it, it turned out that more than half of all links were broken on the 2 pages that I have checked so far, so I decided to start with more pages rather than go on stopping. If you are the owner of a site that has been mistakenly linked in some of the pages, then please let me know. I will certainly remove a link to you. You can send me an e-mail (Peter) or post a comment to this post. A warning that a site has been updated to 1.2.x — This is the most important warning. It warns that the site in question has been updated recently, and the link from your site should be removed. It does not mean that the site is in a bad way. 1.5.x — This should be the 2nd most important warning. This is the warning that people should remove links from an old site. However, this warning is only really useful if you actually know what to do with the links you currently have on your pages, otherwise this warning is of no use to you. There is no third warning category. Note:The about section of this blog post does not mention any criteria that links need to have passed for the Warnings to be removed. So you can still pass the Warn

GAMEPLAY All familiars have different skills, and combine their powers to create powerful combos. Tapping a familiar is as much like typing in MS Paint as it sounds. You won't have access to EVERY combo at all times - familiars will use certain skills as the situation calls for, and foes will use what they have as well. Clever use of specials and arena objectives will boost your familiars attack, and combo meter. Hit hard enough, and familiars will gain a special ability. STRATEGY Don't get caught in a combo when your familiar is low on HP! All familiars have different strengths and weaknesses. Determining which familiars to bring into battle and when they're best used is crucial. This gives the player a lot of room for strategic choices, and turns this game into a fun puzzle of timing and execution. Why so defensive? Avoid being out maneuvered by traps and dumb enemies. Perfect timing can stop a combo dead. The more familiars you can have on the ground, the more deadly the trap will be. People die. SELL ME ON Finally! A silly dungeon crawler with a cute art style, detailed enemy models, and just enough choice to truly make you feel like the dungeon master of your own personal story. --- I'm Jooyou, the producer, and am now going to give you an overview of the gameplay. ABOUT THE STORY "Wish City is a beautiful, chaotic metropolis that is the capital of the human world. Like every city, Wish City contains a variety of dangerous denizens. Rival gangs run rampant, and temptations abound. ... Like every metropolis, however, Wish City has its fair share of heroes and villains, and they're all here in this city. What distinguishes a hero from a villain, however, is the quest. While most people are just trying to get by, some will go on quests to get power, fame, and even love. This is because of the game's storyline. Wish City is broken down into different districts. Each district will contain certain quest items, and getting them all will prove to be a challenging task. If you can complete it, you will earn the star, which will then unlock a new district. Sounds simple enough, right? Wrong. THE ENEMIES Every quest will have enemies to contend with. Do you want to
